A Growing Academic Presence

A recent update on Academia reveals that 15,974 research papers mention the name “Suresh Agrawal”, indicating a notable presence in global academic discourse.

Importantly, Prof. Suresh Agrawal, the Vice-Chancellor of the University, is associated with this expanding scholarly visibility.

While such mentions may include citations, references, their scale reflects the increasing reach of academic identity in digital knowledge networks. The inclusion of work related to decolonization research further highlights engagement with contemporary intellectual themes.

This recognition not only enhances individual academic standing but also strengthens the Maharshi Dayanand Saraswati University's intellectual reputation at a global level.
